PARENT PROBE

GET ADVICE ON HOW TO TALK TO YOUR KIDS ABOUT SEX.

PARENT PROBE is a 20-page full-color magazine for parents and caregivers of teens and pre-teens.

Produced by the Family Planning Council, it gives adults helpful tips on how to talk to teens about sexual health issues.

The magazine is designed in the fun style of a supermarket tabloid. Important information is presented through reader-friendly articles.

Topics include:

- Building trust and open communication
- How kids grow and change from age 9 to 18
- How times have changed since today's adults were teens
- Signs that a teen is abused or an abuser
- Advice to parents of gay teens
- Birth control and STD prevention, including abstinence (the only 100% effective method)

Features:

- Dear Polly advice column
- Web resources for teens, parents and grandparents
- Special page "for men only"
- Local parents and teens give real-life examples from their talks about sex.

"Parent Probe" is FREE — just pay shipping costs, or pick up copies from the Family Planning Council office.
